RE: Approval to rename the Printing Services Facility to the Surplus Operations Building

On behalf of the Purdue University Administrative Operations team, I am respectfully requesting approval to:

- Rename the Printing Services Facility to the Surplus Operations Building

The Printing Services Facility (PRSV) is a 30,299 GSF building, located at 698 Ahlers Drive, West Lafayette, IN 47906, which was originally constructed in 2007. At the time of its construction, PRSV replaced the original, 50-year-old Printing Services building that was demolished on the site of what is now the Hockmeyer Hall of Structural Biology, located in the Discovery Park District.

From 2007 until summer 2024, PRSV served its intended purpose to provide the university with access to large-scale printing presses, high volume digital copying and mail production. In summer 2024, on-campus printing operations ceased, and the university relocated surplus operations into PRSV. While the name was an appropriate reflection of Purdue's past, the Printing Services name no longer accurately reflects how the building is being used. Changing the name to the Surplus Operations Building will alleviate confusion for faculty, staff, students and other customers while allowing for better wayfinding.

Thank you for your consideration.
