

Food Safety Webinar

Friday, May 14, 2010

9:00 to 10:00 am EDT

Speaker: Dr. Rich Linton, Associate Director of the Agriculture Research Program and Professor of Food Science at Purdue University

Purpose:

To provide emergency food programs continuing education on protecting the quality of food and food safety for their clients.

Objectives:

After the food safety webinar, Indiana emergency food program participants will be able to:

- Identify proper food handling and storage techniques.
- Recognize the meaning of different food package dates.

Instructions:

1. To join the webinar, connect to the Internet and type in the following address:
<https://gomeet.itap.purdue.edu/infoodsafety/>
2. Type your name in the guest login box and then click the button to enter.
3. Make sure you have your computer speakers on so you can hear when the webinar begins.
4. Instructions will be provided during the webinar about how to obtain a certificate of attendance. A website link to an evaluation form will also be provided after the webinar.

Questions? Contact Indiana's Food for the Hungry at safefood@purdue.edu or at 765-494-8971