INDIGENOUS COMMUNITIES DURING THE INDEPENDENCE IN THE ANDES

Presented by Dr. Victor Maqqe
2018 Tecumseh Postdoctoral Fellow, Department of History

Wednesday, February 21
11:00 am - 1:00 pm | NAECC

The independence era in the Andes has been mostly dominated by historical accounts that ignored the Indigenous sectors. What explains the absence of Indigenous communities' views about the social and political processes unfolding? Recent scholarly research signals that for the indigenous sectors, the independence meant continuity rather than change. This talk will attempt to emphasize the views and interventions of the Indigenous communities in this complex historical process. Sponsored by:
Center for Leadership Development in collaboration with the NAECC
