

July 2017

Dear Supporter,

Since 2012, the PPP has successfully assisted and encouraged local citizens in West Africa and Central America to design and implement peacebuilding strategies in their communities. To continue to do this work and inspire more peace through local action in these regions, we welcome contributions from you, your colleagues and friends. Please support PPP in assisting local citizens make a difference in their communities. Read More

Updates from the field

Assessing Progress of Project Work in Ghana

Read More

Peaceful Election Activities in Liberia

Read More

PPP Visits to El Salvador

Read More

Yaganoma Baatuolkuu

Yaganoma Baatuolkuu claims she has two great passions in life: food and people. While the former is the source of her business, Wanjo Africa Ltd., a food processing and packaging company, the latter is the focus of her work with the Purdue Peace Project. As Ghana Country Director for the PPP, Yaganoma admits “my passions are coming together in this work.” Yaganoma is new to this position as of early 2017, following in the footsteps of her mother, the late Rosaline B. Obeng-Ofori. Read More

PPP in the News

During her visit to El Salvador in June 2017, Dr. Stacey Connaughton took part in Así Estamos, a news and analysis TV show. Dr. Connaughton spoke about PPP’s locally led approach to peacebuilding and PPP’s support for the work of the Comisión Interinstitucional. Check out the video of the show here.

At Purdue

We are pleased to announce that in June 2017, we welcomed our undergraduate summer intern, Simrin Tamhane. Read More

